Hondros College of Nursing is seeking programmatic accreditation for the Medical Laboratory Technology program from the National Accrediting Agency for Clinical Laboratory Science (NAACLS). Eligibility to take some certification examinations may depend on whether or not the Medical Laboratory Technology program achieves "serious applicant status" with NAACLS.

The Medical Laboratory Technology program is not currently eligible to participate in Title IV Federal Financial Aid Programs. The College has submitted the Medical Laboratory Technology program to the United States Department of Education for inclusion in the College's institutional accreditation, which governs Title IV eligibility. The College cannot guarantee if or when the Medical Laboratory Technology Program will become eligible to participate in Title IV.
